

Lia C. Sader, Equine Practitioner

Stepping Stone Farms School of Horsemanship
1439 92nd Street, Franksville Wisconsin 53126

Coaching. Speaking. Teaching. Transforming.

Lia Sader has over 30 years experience as a horse professional, barn manager/owner, trainer, and instructor with 20+ years as a professional farrier. She is a certified equine specialist, a coach and mentor, trained and certified through the Equine Assisted Growth and Learning Association (EAGALA). She is ready to help you or your organization as a motivational speaker or life coach.

Lia's vision is to give "throw-away" horses a job and sense of purpose, while having them earn their keep. Lia didn't listen to the neigh-sayers who didn't think it could be done. She followed her dream of using rescued horses for programs she has developed at Stepping Stone Farms. Today, scores of abused, neglected and unwanted horses have found homes, love, companionship and purpose at Stepping Stone Farms. Anyone who visits the Farm is the better for it.

Life Coaching or Mentoring

Having experienced struggles of her own in life, Lia knows that having an ally that has been through the same things can really help. She builds that sense of empathy and camaraderie into every program she develops to help others who may be struggling to find purpose, follow their own dreams, or are just feeling stuck. Those who come to The Farm soon find that Lia and the horses help them find a new direction without judgment or criticism. Clients can enjoy nature, the wisdom of horses, and the joy of taking the first steps toward fulfilling dreams and aspirations.

Lia encourages anyone who is ready to make a life-changing shift or needs support as they take the risks that often lead to real personal awakening to call and schedule an introductory session (or 3) and begin the walk down the path to a happier life.
